

CEMAT's Thursday Tunis Talks presents:

DR. CHARIS BOUTIERI

THURSDAY, JULY 4, 2013 AT 15H00
CEMAT, CENTRE VILLE

“The Moroccan School from Independence to the Present: the System and Its Masks.”

Charis Boutieri is Lecturer in the Social Anthropology of the Middle East at King's College London. Her research so far has delved into the cultural politics of Moroccan public education from independence onwards as these underpin a contemporary experience of learning. She is currently working on a manuscript based on her dissertation entitled Learning in Babel: The Politics of Knowledge and Language in Morocco. She has published in the International Journal of Middle East Studies and Anthropology & Education Quarterly. She holds a doctorate in socio-cultural anthropology from Princeton University.
