

THE CENTER FOR MAGHRIB STUDIES IN TUNIS (CEMAT) PRESENTS:

« TECHNICAL AID TO BIG WHEAT: THE GREEN REVOLUTION IN TUNISIA »

Lecture by Max Ajl

Max Ajl is a doctoral student in the Department of Development Sociology at Cornell University, and edits Jadaliya's Palestine page. His essays and reviews have been published in the Guardian, the New Statesman, Middle East Report and the Journal of Peasant Studies.

This lecture looks at the long duree patterns of Tunisian agricultural development in the cereal sector. Far from a rupture with the colonial model. It traces a fundamental continuity between colonial era farms and their large Tunisian doppelgangers, and the post-Independence move to modernized, capital-intense and labor-light cereal production systems.

THE EVENT WILL TAKE PLACE AT CEMAT ON THURSDAY, MARCH 31ST, 2016 AT 10:00. A LIGHT RECEPTION WILL FOLLOW.
